RESEARCH

2014 National Marine Fisheries Service-Sea Grant Fellowships

Two joint Sea Grant - National Marine Fisheries Service fellowship opportunities are now open for applications: in Population and Ecosystem Dynamics, and in Marine Resource Economics.

EDUCATION

From Stone Lab to Alaskan Science

Former Stone Lab student Liz Schababerle now works at the Sitka Sound Science Center in Alaska on projects that record whale sound underwater and apply the findings to helping fisheries and whales co-exist in a more sustainable way.

OUTREACH

An Evening With Stone Lab

Ohio Sea Grant and the Friends of Stone Lab will host the 16th Annual Winter Program on Jan. 21. Learn about the lab and bid in the silent auction; college students can meet former Stone Lab students and win a Stone Lab scholarship.

Lake Erie Day Supports Stone Lab

Visitors to the Progressive Mid-America Boat Show at Cleveland's I-X Center can learn about Lake Erie with fun and educational activities, and support Stone Lab's research, education, and outreach efforts by purchasing admission on January 20, Lake Erie Day. The Lake Erie Marine Trades Association (LEMTA), donates $1 from every admission ticket purchased that day to Stone Lab student scholarships.
